trying to lock in and learn latex xx emph is context-aware. it makes text stand out from whatever text surrounds it.

textit is a font-switch. it blindly forces whatever is in it to be italic textbf is also a font-switch. it converts text to boldface.

1 title of the section

some text

1.1 title of the subsection

some text

ordered list

1. an entry
2. ooh another one
3. 3rd one

unordered list

- an entry
- 2nd one
- wow this is fun

this is a sample document with some dummy text[1].

[1] and a footnote

Figure 1: mwah

2 tables

2.1 simple tables

flower	color	price
rose	red	2
peony	pink	3

2.2 text-wrap tables

something	something
hi	this format is basically for long text. if we use the previous format, we end up with the text running off the paper
bye	also makes it look super clean and i dont know what to type anymore- my stomach hurts and i miss my dog so yes ok bye
wait	oh also i added rules bc i think it looks better. {1-2} gives a complete line, {1-1} for the first column, {2-2} for the second column

3 math

two forms of math mode: inline and display. inline is used for eqns part of a sentence, display is pretty math like, sentence with inline mathematics: $y = mx + c$. another sentence with inline mathematics: $5^2 = 3^2 + 4^2$.

PRETTY MATHHH

$$y = mx + c$$

superscripts x^y and subscripts x_y.

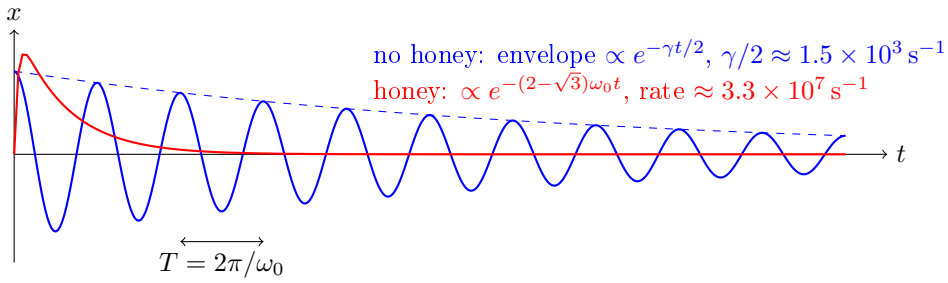

trig: $y = 2\sin(\theta^2)$.

$$\int_{-\infty}^{+\infty} e^{-x^2}\,dx \tag{1}$$

note so i don't lose my mind later: the amsmath package has more stuff

4 graphs HELLO

i just discovered something NEW wowowoowowowowo

5 citing sources
